

A well-spread subnetwork can closely estimate a denser network's mean $\text{PM}_{2.5}$

Adding more sensors might give diminishing returns beyond a certain point (n)